

There has not been any definite proof that cell phones do NOT interfere with aircraft navigation. Additionally, cell phones provide an unnecessary distraction in the event of an onboard emergency; when the cell phone user's attention should be focused on crew member instructions which could save thier life.